GIVE THEM THEIR FLOWERS.

FIGHURS is a digital and print magazine. Your job is to make the right people feel seen in public, in the magazine's voice, and send readers back to the issue.

SITE
fighurs.com

INSTAGRAM
@fighurs

YOUTUBE
@fighursonfilm

LINE
there's just so much to smile about.

CLOSE
Read. Watch. Collect.

WHAT THIS MAGAZINE IS

A MAGAZINE, NOT A CONTENT PAGE.

The sentence

FIGHURS is an independent culture magazine documenting the figures rewriting fashion, internet culture, and creative identity.

It is digital and print. It spotlights trailblazing figures in fashion, literature, science, and plenty of other fields — people redefining culture and innovation their way. The magazine is here to tell their stories.

The belief under it: it is easier to compete than to appreciate. FIGHURS celebrates creativity, ambition, and impact. Not just recognition. Flowers. Well-deserved flowers, no longer a figment of their imagination. That line is from the editor. Use the feeling. Don’t paraphrase it into a slogan mill.

What you are here to do

- Post the issues, the film, and the people in them.
- Sound like the site: short, warm, sure, specific.
- Send people to a real URL. Every post needs a door.
- Credit the subject. The magazine is the host, not the star.
- Draft freely. Publish only after the editor says yes, until you are told a post type is yours to ship.

SPELL IT FIGHURS.

The name

FIGHURS. One word. It is “figures,” spelled the magazine’s way. In a headline or a sentence, set it in capitals: FIGHURS.

The logo word next to the smile is always lowercase: fighurs.

Never

Figures, Figurs, Fighers, Fighur’s, FIGHERS. A YouTube title once says “MAGZINE.” That is a typo. The word is magazine.

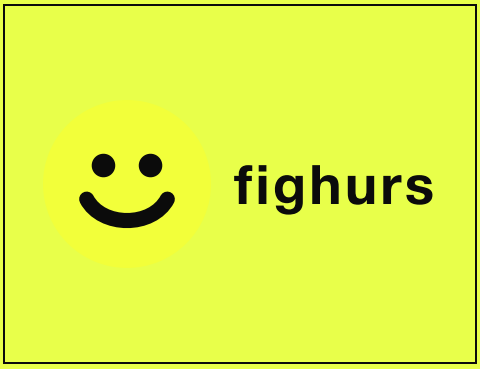

How to refer to it

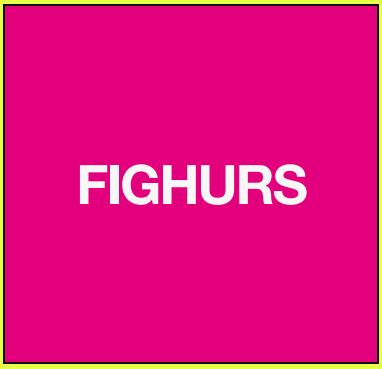

“FIGHURS,” “the magazine,” “the issue.” Don’t write “FIGHURS Magazine™ brand.” Don’t call the people in it “our influencers.” They are the figures. Use their names.

BRAND KIT · MARK

THE SMILE IS THE LOGO.

Official mark, from the logo file. Two dots, one smile, yellow ground, black drawing. Do not redraw it, trace it, or swap in an emoji.

Use it this way

- Primary lockup: smile + lowercase fighurs, black type, on lime, paper, or white.
- On magenta, cobalt, or black: the smile stays yellow with a black face. The word can go white.
- Clear space: at least half the smile's width on every side. Don't crowd it into a corner with stickers.
- Smallest useful size: about 32px tall on screen. If the eyes disappear, use the word only.
- Files: `public/brand/logo.svg` on the site project, and fighurs.com/brand/logo.svg. Favicon is the same smile.
- A yellow signature mark also lives at `public/brand/signature-yellow.svg`. That is a signature, not a second logo. Use it rarely, as a sign-off, and only if the editor asks.

Leave it alone

- No gradients, glows, drop shadows, outlines, or 3D.
- No recoloring the face. Eyes and smile stay black. The disk stays yellow.
- No stretching, rotating, or cropping the smile into a semicircle.
- No extra eyes, hats, tears, or "sad version."
- Don't set the yellow disk straight on the lime background with no edge. Put it on paper, white, or a darker field so it reads.
- Don't replace it with 😊 or a different smiley from a sticker pack.

BRAND KIT · COLOR

FLAT COLOR. LOUD ON PURPOSE.

The site lives on lime. Magenta is the footer. Cobalt is the active link and the hover. Neon yellow is the smile and the highlight. Black is the ink. These are the colors. Use them as solid fields, not as a rainbow in one frame.

Lime

#E8FF4A

Page color. Default background for graphics.

Neon

#FFF200

Smile disk, selection, small highlights.

Paper

#FFFDE8

Cards, captions, quiet panels.

Ink

#0B0B0B

Type, rules, the smile's face. Also full-bleed black frames.

Magenta

#E2007C

Footer, fashion hits, one strong field per post.

Cobalt

#2546FF

Active state, links, the other strong field.

Cyan

#35E0FF

Issue 003 accent. A spark, not a background habit.

Orange

#FF6A3D

The footer tagline color. Use for one line, not a fill.

Crimson

#E10600

Issue 002 accent.

Gold

#E8C547

Issue 005 accent.

Hot pink

#FF2D8A

Issue 001 accent. Close to magenta, not the same.

On lime, magenta, or cobalt, type is black or near-white #F7F7F5. Orange type is only for the tagline on magenta. Cyan type is for a hover or a single label, and it needs a dark or white field so it stays readable. One photo + one color field is enough. Do not gradient them together.

HELVETICA, THEN MONO.

DISPLAY

READ. WATCH. COLLECT.

Helvetica Neue, Helvetica, Arial. Weight 800. Tight leading. Uppercase. This is for headlines only.

LABELS

ISSUE 007 · 2026 · CREATOR FEATURE

VIEW ALL ISSUES

Space Mono, uppercase, tracked out, small. Eyebrows, buttons, issue numbers, nav. If Space Mono isn't in the tool, IBM Plex Mono or a plain mono is the fallback. Do not set captions in a script, a serif, or a "luxury" Didot.

Headlines

Uppercase Helvetica, crushed together. Short. A headline is a slam: THE ICON. FLOWERS. NYFW SS26.

Body

Same Helvetica, regular, sentence case. Say the specific thing. Then stop.

Buttons and UI

Mono, uppercase, a 1px black rule, lots of letterspacing. On the site, a hover fills cobalt, magenta, or cyan. Pick one.

BRAND KIT · PICTURE

THE PHOTO IS THE DESIGN.

Use stills from the issues and the site. Full-bleed portraits, runway, studio, collage. Faces stay large. Color is a bar, a full frame behind type, or a caption plate — not a filter on the photo.

Feed crop is 4:5. Stories and Reels are 9:16. YouTube thumbs are 16:9. Keep faces and the smile out of the bottom strip, where the app covers them.

Do not use stock photos, AI portraits, beige fashion-grid templates, crumpled-paper textures, or neon cyber gradients. A little grain is fine. The site uses a very light grain, around 7%. If you can see the noise before you see the person, it's too much.

If a page credits a photographer, the caption credits them too. If you can't find the credit, ask before posting.

VOICE

WARM, SHORT, SURE.

The editor’s tone is an ever-smiling host who takes the work seriously and the people in it even more seriously. Smile is the temperature. It is not a bit, and it is not cute for its own sake.

Sounds like FIGHURS

- Juhm makes nuance look like influence.
- Issue 006 is up. ICONIKKI, cover to cover.
- Backstage at NYFW, from the people who actually build the week.
- Read it. Then watch the interview.
- there’s just so much to smile about.

Doesn’t

- We’re so excited to announce our latest drop!! 🚨🔥
- This queen ATE and left no crumbs.
- Elevate your mindset with our exclusive editorial.
- Link in bio bestie, don’t sleep.
- FIGHURS Magazine™ is thrilled to partner with…

Sentences

One idea each. Names before adjectives. If a sentence could sit under any creator, rewrite it until it can only be this person.

The lowercase line

“there’s just so much to smile about.” stays lowercase, with the apostrophe. It is the footer, not a headline. Don’t shout it.

Issue language

No. 007 or Issue 007. Titles stay as published, in capitals. “Flip” means the digital reader. “Print” means the physical copy.

CHANNELS

TWO ACCOUNTS. DIFFERENT JOBS.

INSTAGRAM

@fighurs

instagram.com/fighurs

The front door. Covers, stills, a line from the issue, film clips, and the occasional story from the archive. This is where new readers should land.

BIO, IF YOU REFRESH IT

FIGHURS
digital + print magazine flowers for the figures
read. watch. collect.
fighurs.com

YOUTUBE

@fighursonfilm

youtube.com/@fighursonfilm

The interviews and the trailers. Titles on screen: ISSUE 006 — THE ICON, then the name. Description: two lines on who they are, the issue URL, and @fighurs.

ABOUT, IF YOU REFRESH IT

FIGHURS on film. Interviews and trailers from the magazine.
@fighurs · fighurs.com

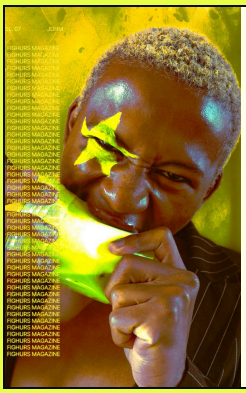

Where everything lives on the site

fighurs.com home · /magazine archive, 7 issues, 2025—2026 · /interview the films · /shop print editions · /about the mission reel. Watch that reel before you write anything. It is the voice, out loud.

Print buttons on the site currently say “Coming soon.” Digital flip-through is live. Do not tell anyone they can buy a copy today unless the editor confirms checkout is actually open. Prices already on the site, for when it is: Issues 001 and 002 are $15. Issues 003 through 007 are $25.

ISSUE BIBLE · USE THESE FACTS, DON’T INVENT NEW ONES

SEVEN ISSUES.

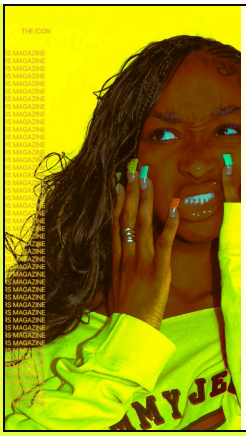

NO. 007 · 2026 · $25 · ACCENT #F2FF3A

THE MINUSCULE IS IN

Juhm. Social media creator. Humor, fashion, and cultural commentary collapsed into something distinctly his. The issue is about how nuance becomes influence.

FLIP SHOP

NO. 006 · 2026 · $25 · ACCENT #FF4D9A

THE ICON

ICONIKKI. Fashion-forward creator and stylist. The TikTok presence feels like a live moodboard: quick-fit moments, bold styling, everyday looks that feel editorial. Interview is on YouTube, 15:12. Spell the name ICONIKKI.

FLIP SHOP INTERVIEW

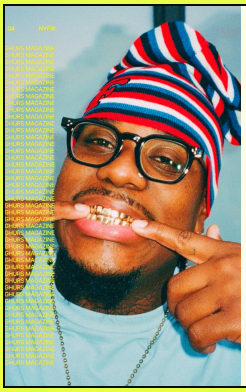

NO. 005 · 2025 · $25 · ACCENT #E8C547

THE ARTIST

Masue Kamara. Multidisciplinary artist. Identity, restraint, emotional presence. A study in self-definition and making the work on one's own terms. Short film on YouTube, 2:55.

FLIP SHOP FILM

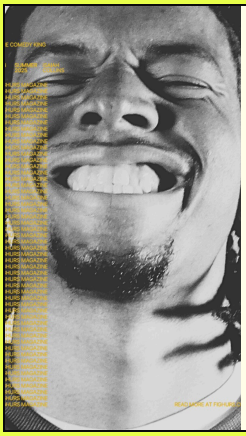

NO. 004 · 2025 · $25 · SPECIAL EDITION

NYFW SS26

New York Fashion Week, from the side rarely shown: photographers, artists, stylists, and creatives who bring each show to life. Backstage chaos to artistic intimacy. Trailer is 0:50.

FLIP SHOP TRAILER

NO. 003 · AUGUST 2025 · $25 · ACCENT #35E0FF

THE COMEDY KING

Isaiah Collins. Philly-born digital comedian @bubbacollins. Honesty that hits harder than the punchline. Owning a narrative without losing the soul. On first mention you can use both names. After that, Isaiah is enough.

FLIP SHOP

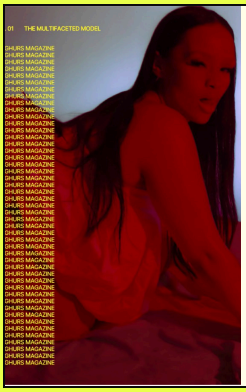

NO. 002 · APRIL 2025 · $15 · ACCENT #E10600

THE COLE METHOD

Eddie Cole. Self-taught, Minneapolis. Fashion, photography, and storytelling. From styling out of necessity to a community-centered studio. Interview is 8:21.

FLIP SHOP INTERVIEW

NO. 001 · FEBRUARY 2025 · $15 · ACCENT #FF2D8A

THE MULTIFACETED MODEL

Makenna Onyambu. Runway to real life. Confidence, creativity, and the future of fashion. A model and a visionary, and the issue treats the journey as just beginning. Interview is 6:53.

FLIP SHOP INTERVIEW

HOW A WEEK WORKS

POST THE MAGAZINE. THEN GET OUT OF THE WAY.

A steady week, no new issue

1. One archive cover or still, with the issue link.
2. One line that could only belong to that person. Pull it from the published blurb or a page you actually read.
3. Stories: a page-flip, a still, a “read this” sticker to the issue URL. Three frames is plenty.
4. If a film exists for that issue, one clip or a link to the interview. Point to @fighursonfilm.

Three strong posts beat seven empty ones. Skip a day rather than post a quote you made up.

Issue week

1. Cover, full bleed. Title, number, name. Link to the flip reader.
2. A second still the next day. Different crop, one new fact from the issue.
3. Film or trailer the day it goes up, cover frame in the first second, link in the first line of the caption.
4. Stories that day: cover, a favorite spread, the URL, and a tag of the subject if the editor has confirmed the handle.
5. A week later, one “still reading” post. Not a recap thread.

Feed

Cover. Still plus one sentence. Real pull-quote, editor-approved. Film announcement. “Read it” with the flip link.

Stories

Lime, magenta, or cobalt frame. Mono label in the corner: NO. 007. Face in the middle. Link sticker to the exact issue, not the homepage, when you can.

Reels and film

First frame is a face or the cover, with the name. No cold open logo sting. End card: fighurs.com and the smile, two seconds, then out.

Caption shape

Line one is the slam. Specific, short, no hashtags yet. Then one or two sentences on who they are, using the issue’s facts. Last line is the door: the URL, written out. Tag the subject once you know the handle is right. Hashtags, if any: #FIGHURS and the name. Three tags is the ceiling. No tag stacks.

Alt text is a sentence a person can use: “Cover of FIGHURS issue 007, a portrait of Juhm.” Not a keyword list.

CAPTIONS YOU CAN START FROM

WRITTEN FROM THE SITE. STILL GET A YES.

These stay inside published copy. Attach a real still. Add the subject’s handle only after the editor confirms it.

ISSUE 007 · JUHM FIGHURS.COM/MAGAZINE/JUHM

```
THE MINUSCULE IS IN.

Juhm is redefining how personality translates online — humor, fashion, and cultural commentary, collapsed into something distinctly his. Nuance, as influence.

Issue 007 is up.
fighurs.com/magazine/juhm
```

ISSUE 006 · ICONIKKI

INTERVIEW 15:12

THE ICON.

ICONIKKI styles like a live moodboard. Quick-fit moments, bold choices, everyday looks that feel editorial.

Read the issue. Then watch the interview.
fighurs.com/magazine/iconikki

ISSUE 005 · MASUE KAMARA

THE ARTIST

A study in self-definition.

Masue Kamara makes work about identity, restraint, and emotional presence — on one’s own terms.

Issue 005, The Artist.
fighurs.com/magazine/masue-kamara

ISSUE 004 · NYFW SS26

SPECIAL EDITION

The week, from the people who build it.

Photographers, artists, stylists. Backstage chaos, then the quiet.

NYFW SS26, Issue 004.
fighurs.com/magazine/nyfw-ss26

ISSUE 003 · ISAIAH COLLINS @BUBBACOLLINS

Long live The Comedy King.

Philly-born @bubbacollins. The honesty hits harder than the punchline.

Issue 003. fighurs.com/magazine/isaiah-collins

ISSUE 002 · EDDIE COLE MINNEAPOLIS

THE COLE METHOD.

Eddie Cole, self-taught in Minneapolis. Fashion, photography, storytelling — and a studio built around the people in it.

Issue 002.
fighurs.com/magazine/eddie-cole

ISSUE 001 · MAKENNA ONYAMBU THE MULTIFACETED MODEL

From the runway to real life.

Makenna Onyambu is redefining confidence, creativity, and what fashion gets to look like next. The journey is just beginning.

Issue 001.
fighurs.com/magazine/makenna

COMMENTS, DMS, AND THE YES LIST

YOU CAN BE KIND WITHOUT PROMISING THE MAGAZINE.

In the comments

- Reply like a person at the masthead. Short. “Issue 006 is the one — link’s in the bio.”
- If someone praises the subject, agree and name them. Don’t pivot to “follow us.”
- If someone wants to be featured: “Features are chosen by the editor. Send the work, and don’t wait on a DM for a yes.” Never promise an issue.
- Criticism of a subject: don’t debate, don’t pile on, don’t speak for them. Screenshot it and send it to the editor.
- Anything legal, angry, or about money: don’t reply. Escalate.

Ask before you publish

- Every post, until the editor clears a category for you to ship alone.
- Any quote, even a short one.
- Any date, price, sold-out claim, collab, gift, or “#ad.”
- Tagging someone for the first time.
- A photo that is not already in an issue or on fighurs.com.
- Giveaways, follows-for-follows, comment pods, bought comments.

Passwords stay in a password manager or an official Instagram / YouTube invite. Don’t text them. Don’t put them in a caption draft.

Hard no

Don’t invent quotes, ages, cities, or credits. Don’t announce print checkout while the button says Coming soon. Don’t use the subject’s image to sell a product they didn’t agree to. Don’t post screenshots of private messages. Don’t argue with the subject in public. Don’t “fix” the logo. Don’t misspell FIGHURS. If you are unsure, the post waits.

READ BEFORE YOU POST.

1. Watch the about reel on fighurs.com/about all the way through.
2. Flip Issue 007 and Issue 006 in the reader. Read, don't skim the pictures only.
3. Watch the ICONIKKI interview.
4. Save this page. Open both accounts. Note what's already up so you don't repeat last week's cover.
5. Draft three posts in a doc: one cover, one still, one film link. Use the captions above. Don't schedule them.
6. Send the drafts with the image, the URL, and who you want to tag. Wait for notes.
7. After the first yes, post it, then check it on a phone. Face visible, name spelled right, link correct.

Send with this handbook

- Logo: `logo.svg` in the site's `public/brand` folder.
- Smile favicon, same folder family.
- Yellow signature, only if you want it used.
- Cover files for the seven issues, or permission to pull stills from the live site and the PDFs.
- Access via Instagram and YouTube's own invite flow.
- The handles you are willing to have tagged, written down, so she isn't guessing.

This handbook was written from fighurs.com and the site's brand files on October 16, 2026. If checkout goes live, or a new issue ships, update the issue bible before she posts it.

there's just so much to smile about.

fighurs.com · @fighurs · @fighursonfilm